

Monterey County The Herald

Thursday, April 29, 1999

The healing arts

CLAY PETERSON/Special to the Herald

C.J. Fraley, 9, of Pacific Grove, paints the petals of a giant flower at Community Hospital of Monterey Peninsula. The art is part of Project 9865, a creative therapy program designed for thousands of hospitalized children and their families throughout California. When completed, the art will be incorporated into a monument taller than the Statue of Liberty; the monument will be constructed in Los Angeles.