

The Californian

FRIDAY, April 30, 1999

Informing the Salinas Valley for 128 years

35 CENTS

Picture a new mural

Richard Green/The Californian

Patients and staff at Natividad Medical Center paint a mural on Thursday that will be part of a tower taller than the Statue of Liberty. The tower will be constructed in Los Angeles at the end of the year. Thousands of pediatric patients across the state are working on the project. Painting are, from left, Albertina Castandea, 8, Christine Meza, 6, and volunteer Dawn Massey.